

P.S. ARTS

ANNUAL REPORT
2012-2013 SCHOOL YEAR

improving children's lives through arts education

dear friends

We feel very lucky here at P.S. ARTS. With the support of hundreds of people dedicated to providing all students with access to a high-quality education, we have made great strides in promoting educational equity in Los Angeles County and Central California. We want to thank all of you for supporting this important work and for everything you do for the underserved students in our community.

For 22 years, P.S. ARTS has worked hard to provide quality arts education in the schools we serve. It is our firm belief that every student, despite economic status, intellectual ability, or socio-cultural background, is entitled to study art as part of his or her overall educational experience. So much has been accomplished in the field and in our programs, and yet there is still so much to do.

We hope that through our annual report you will have a better idea of the work that goes into building our programs. Every week, we see firsthand the capabilities children have when provided the opportunity to express themselves through the arts. As we close another year at P.S. ARTS, we are proud of and inspired by the work of our dedicated Teaching Artists, hardworking staff, and most of all, the students we serve. We invite you to look back with us at some of P.S. ARTS biggest achievements in the 2012-2013 school year.

Sincerely,

Kristen Paglia

about us

MISSION

P.S. ARTS is a nonprofit organization dedicated to improving the lives of children by providing arts education to underserved public schools and communities.

HISTORY

P.S. ARTS was created in response to significant education budget cuts in the 1970s and 1980s, which cut local tax revenues for public schools and resulted in the systematic reduction and elimination of arts programs in California public schools.

In the Spring of 1991, Dr. Paul Cummins, renowned educator, author, and founder of Crossroads School in Santa Monica, was on his way to the kitchen during a potluck dinner and literally bumped into a man that he had never met but looked quite familiar – famed musician Herb Alpert. They began a conversation, which has become P.S. ARTS folklore... Paul decried the lack of arts education at a local school he had recently visited. Herb's response was, "You mean the arts are just gone from these public schools? What if I gave you a grant?" And thus, P.S. ARTS was founded as an outreach project of the Crossroads Community Foundation. In 2003, P.S. ARTS received its own non-profit 501 (c) 3 designation.

P.S. ARTS has grown from serving 285 students in one school, to more than 15,000 students in 35 underserved schools across Los Angeles County and California's Central Valley, and an additional 1,000 students through after school and enrichment programs. For more than twenty years, P.S. ARTS has provided nationally recognized arts instruction programs to tens of thousands of students attending underserved public elementary and middle schools in our community.

CORE MODEL

P.S. ARTS provides year-long arts education to every child in a school integrated into the regular school day. Our organization hires and trains professional Teaching Artists to develop high-quality, state standards-based curriculum in dance, music, theater, and visual arts in underserved public schools.

PARTNERSHIPS

P.S. ARTS is deeply committed to promoting the value of the arts in schools and strengthening arts education in public education. In 2010, P.S. ARTS launched the innovative TakePART (Public-school Arts Regional Team) initiative. Through strategic collaboration and resource sharing, thousands of children from five Southern California school districts are receiving dance, music, theater, and visual arts instruction during the school day. Additionally, P.S. ARTS is actively represented at key arts education policy committees at the regional and national level. P.S. ARTS is also honored to have participated in the President's Committee on Arts and Humanities summer institute exploring arts as strategies for school improvement, and as an active member of the combined California Art Council and Department of Education initiative, CREATE CA.

COMMUNITY OUTREACH

P.S. ARTS works closely with our partner schools to increase arts and cultural opportunities available to the entire school communities. Our free Family Art Nights have served thousands of community members and feature multi-generational art lessons and activities. At P.S. ARTS, we are especially proud of the annual TakePART Arts Festival that brings children and families from five school districts together to showcase the work of K-12th grade students. P.S. ARTS also connects with the community through social media by regularly updating our Facebook, Twitter, Instagram, LinkedIn, Pinterest, and YouTube account with posts about our programs, fundraisers, and news in the field. P.S. ARTS also keeps followers up-to-date by posting blogs once a week at psarts.org/blog.

FACULTY TRAINING

The P.S. ARTS faculty is highly trained both in the arts and in education. In addition to a workshop professional development series, P.S. ARTS Teaching Artists are provided with frequent individual coaching. The P.S. ARTS faculty training program focuses on topics relevant to students attaining college and career success in the 21st century. In the summer of 2014, P.S. ARTS is collaborating with the UCLA Visual and Performing Arts Education minor to provide a six-week Teaching Artist training intensive.

- P.S. ARTS launches a weekly blog to keep supporters up-to-date on program news, events, and advocacy efforts.

fundraisers

Every school year, P.S. ARTS hosts three signature events to raise money for our arts education programs. These fundraisers include the family-friendly Express Yourself in the fall, the chic LA Modernism Opening Night in the spring, and the fashionable luncheon Bag Lunch at the end of the school year. Not only are these events another source of revenue for our programs, but they help increase the awareness of our organization and bring influential members of the Los Angeles community together for an important and compelling cause. We are pleased to announce that we raised more than $800,000 to support our programs at our signature events this past year. P.S. ARTS also partners with companies for smaller events to benefit our organization. In the 2012-2013 year, P.S. ARTS partnered with Angeleno magazine, Bloomingdale's, Omaze, Tommy Hilfiger, Chloe, and Burning Torch to help raise additional funds for our organization.
